

GRAF WELL ON COURSE OF TRIP AROUND WORLD

Air Liner Several Miles Out From Cape Cod At Six A. M.

HAS 22 PASSENGERS

Radio Message of Appreciation Sent to the American People

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—(INS)—Radio compass bearings from the Graf Zeppelin picked up at the Boston Navy Yard at 6:00 a. m. (eastern daylight time) today indicated that the air liner was several miles off Cape Cod, Mass., heading northeast up the Atlantic at that time.

(INS Staff Correspondent)
LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 8.—The Graf Zeppelin was speeding toward its place in the sun.

Magnifying the dream of Jules Verne, the man-made piece of silver cloth and duralumin they call a dirigible was well away on its flight around the world.

Its motors sang "Auf Wiedersehn" at 12:40 a. m. (eastern daylight time) today.

A shadowy silver bar gemmed with cabin lights, its take-off was a thing of beauty. The historic episode was also studied with a flavor of international comradery. A smooth-clicking team of American gobs and marines sent the German dirigible on its way while a military band played the twenty-two passengers aboard into the horizon with "It's a Long, Long Trail Awaiting."

Before heading toward Friedrichshafen, its first stop, the Graf Zeppelin arched proudly over the city of skyscrapers, out-electrifying Times Square, flitting with the Woolworth Tower and setting the official time of the world circuit at fifteen minutes before two o'clock, (eastern daylight time) as it passed over the statue of Liberty.

And in a graceful gesture, as it struck out for the grandest adventure since man learned to use his wings the Zep sent a radio message of appreciation to the American people and the American navy for their hospitality and aid.

The first radio message to be sent by the round-the-world dirigible was addressed to secretary of the navy Charles Francis Adams and read:

"Leaving the shores of your wonderful country desire most urgently to express to you our admiration and sincere thanks for splendid hospitality which we have been privileged to enjoy at your naval air station at Lakehurst and for all your goodly support which made possible our pleasantly started flight around the world."

The second message from Dr. Hugo Eckener, the bearded skipper of the airship, was addressed to Lieut. Commander M. R. Pierce in charge of the airport here.

"On leaving your hospitable grounds, I wish to thank again yourself, officers and men of your station for the most excellent assistance and co-operation which we have had the pleasure to enjoy. Auf Wiedersehn."

A dirigible hazard seemingly more dangerous than facing the elements appears to be stowaways. On the westward trip of the Graf they discovered a German lad after the Graf Zeppelin had taken off. Today, they found Morris Roth, 18, of Trenton, N. J., nestling on the catwalk of the dirigible, another hopeful air hobo.

HOPKINS LODGE, 87, IS PRESENTED WITH GIFTS

Local Lodge of I. O. O. F. Order Makes Headway With Alterations to Quarters

PLAN FOR A DRIVE

Groups of members of I. O. O. F. order who are employed in two manufacturing plants in this vicinity are making presentations to Hopkins Lodge, No. 87, I. O. O. F., during the course of the renovations to the local lodge quarters.

Members of the Hopkins Lodge who are employed at the Badenhausen Corporation plant at Cornwells Heights have decided to purchase rugs for the reading room on the first floor. When all remodeling work is completed these rugs will be bought and put in place.

Another gift that has already been made is a large set of dishes, sufficient pieces to serve 100 people. The dishes are the gifts of men from the Paterson Parchment Paper Company, the majority of whom are affiliated with Star of Hope Lodge, of Coatesville. This group frequently pays visits to the local lodge.

It is expected that renovations will be completed in September. The metal ceilings and sidewalls have been completed, and are now being painted. The work on the stairways is now about finished, and the electrical work well underway. A new door has been hung at the front of the structure at Radcliffe and Walnut streets. It is also planned to have steam heat installed in the building.

During the past two years slight improvements have been made, but the Odd Fellows of Bristol are now making a thorough job, and the appearance when all work is done will be exceptionally pleasing it is believed.

Plans are being made for a membership drive, a committee being appointed at the last meeting to outline details. It is hoped a class will be ready to go in in September. During the past two years Hopkins Lodge has had the honor of being on the honor roll of the Grand Lodge record, and Bristol men are anxious to keep it there.

Murdered Girl Transformed In Snook's Testimony

(INS Staff Correspondent)
COURTROOM, COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 8.—Theora Hix, slim campus beauty, became transformed into a "tiger woman" in her attitude toward him in the weeks immediately preceding her tragic death, according to Dr. James Howard Snook, former Ohio State University professor, who today resumed the witness stand to disclose details of the "last quarrel" that provoked him into killing her with hammer and knife on a lonely rifle range on the night of June 13.

Calmly, and without the slightest trace of emotion in his voice the tall, bald-headed, scholarly looking defendant, told the jury Miss Hix nagged him, slapped him, cursed him, threatened to tell his wife of their clandestine love affair and even declared she would shoot him. He was as self-contained on the stand, as he sat there with legs crossed and apparently relaxed, as if he were propounding a theory to a classroom of students.

"Nothing I did suited her toward the end," he exclaimed, almost petulantly. "She thought I wasn't making enough of a fuss over her."

Snook portrayed the quiet, retiring co-ed as "a two-man woman." He related in detail and with shocking intimacy her secret love affair not only with himself but with Marion T. Meyer, another former Ohio State University professor. He branded Theora as an "experimenter with drugs," not only on herself but on him. He spared the dead girl's character not a whit, in his remarkable recital to the jury in the presence of a thronged courtroom of spectators.

This morning, when Snook resumed the stand in his battle to save himself from the electric chair, his direct testimony was nearing its climax. He had reached the point in his astounding narrative where he was leading up to the events immediately preceding the murder. Later, he was to be subjected to rigorous cross-examination.

PATROLMEN ARREST RUM-RUNNER IN AUTO

Seven-Passenger Car Stopped in Front of Edison Sub-Station

FOUND 4 PER CENT BEER

EDISON, Aug. 8.—A seven-passenger "Caddy" of the vintage of 1924, heavily laden with four per cent beer, was seized here Tuesday afternoon on the Lackawanna Trail by members of the State Highway Patrol.

As the car rounded the corner near the Edison sub-station of State Highway Patrol, headed south, the driver, LeRoy Borton, thirty, of 423 Wister street, Germantown, was simply "out of luck." Ahead of him he saw five officers.

Borton's car didn't look good to Corporal James J. Tooley, of the State Highway Patrol, and the other four officers thought the same way. The rear part of the "Caddy" sagged toward the springs and the driver was a "suspicious looking character," the officers said.

A signal from one of the officers stopped the driver of the car in front of the sub-station. In the rear of the "Caddy" the officers found eight half-barrels of "four per cent" beer, neatly placed. The entire rear of the car had been torn out and one-half of the driver's seat had been removed. The tops of the seats were fake so that in looking at the car from the highway, the booze-carrier appeared as a normal automobile.

Borton admitted that he was hauling the beer, for he was the only one in the car and it was moving until the officers stopped him. But he did not know where it came from, other than the fact that it was placed in his car at Hellertown after being unloaded from a large truck loaded with the same beverage. He told officers he was hauling it to Philadelphia.

Borton was turned over to the State Police at the Doylestown sub-station. He was later committed to the county prison to await a hearing before Justice W. Carlisle Holensack. The car was seized and removed to the county prison with the beer.

With the proceeds of this and other activities the committee plans to purchase kitchen equipment for the new headquarters on Cedar street, which have been occupied by the local post of the American Legion.

PHILA. DRUGGIST FOUND DEAD ON ROAD AT CHALFONT

Body of Charles Evans, Jr., 45, Discovered Along Stump Road

WROTE FRIEND A LETTER

Asks That Debts Be Paid And Wife Be Given His Insurance

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 8.—Believed to be a suicide, although the county coroner has not yet given his decision, the body of Charles Evans, Jr., forty-five, a Philadelphia druggist, was found in a field off the Stump Road, seven miles west of here, shortly before noon yesterday. The Stump Road leads off the Limekiln Pike, two miles south of Chalfont Borough.

Evans, who lived in an apartment at Limekiln Pike and Madero avenue, Philadelphia, with his wife, Viola, and two daughters, 18 and 13, quit his position with a drug store at Sixty-ninth and Market streets, Philadelphia, a week ago today. He has been missing from his home since last Monday.

Later yesterday Dr. John J. Sweeney, coroner of Bucks county, performed an autopsy on the body at the George H. Leator mortuary and found that death was due to potassium cyanide poisoning. Whether Evans took the poison himself has not been determined.

State Police of the local sub-station have been investigating the case and were in Philadelphia checking up on the information available.

Tuesday, H.N. Peterson, 1924 Medary avenue, Philadelphia, received a letter from Evans postmarked Doylestown and dated August 6. Peterson has known Evans for fifteen years and last Thursday played golf with him on a course near Philadelphia.

"I will be dead when you get this letter," the opening paragraph stated. "Take care of my insurance policy and see that Viola does not get beat out of the money." The letter was signed "Doc."

This letter was received Tuesday by Peterson. The day before Peterson had received another letter from Evans containing an insurance policy on his life, made payable to Mrs. Evans.

The letter postmarked Doylestown also asked Peterson to sell Evans' automobile and pay off his debts that he owed.

After receiving the letter Peterson went to the Thirty-fifth District police station, Philadelphia, and reported the affair.

Near Evans' body, eight feet away, was found a one-ounce bottle, one-fourth filled with potassium cyanide. The cork was in the bottle tightly.

State Trooper Harry Christ was summoned from Doylestown, together with Coroner Sweeney. The body was removed to Doylestown. In Evans' pockets was found a small amount of money. He was neatly dressed and showed no signs of a struggle before death. His head reclined on a newspaper and the body was in full view of people passing along the scarcely traveled Stump Road.

Peterson told State Police that Evans had been dissatisfied with his work for some time and only recently asked him for a new job.

Tuesday, Mrs. Evans received a letter from her husband in which was inclosed $5 and a note saying "This is the last money you will ever receive from me."

Police believe that Evans came to Doylestown on Monday and late that night mailed the letter to Peterson and that he then walked to the field in Warrington township, on the farm of Howard Detweiler, where the body was found.

Coroner Sweeney stated that it may be possible that Evans was poisoned in Philadelphia and brought out to Bucks county. He had no hat on when found today and his automobile was in a garage near his home in Philadelphia.

FIRST WOMAN DRIVER OF TAXI CAB IN BRISTOL

Mrs. Freddie Speakman Takes Up Business of Her Late Husband

SUPPORTS 3 CHILDREN

Bristol has its first woman taxi driver.

Mrs. Freddie Speakman, 918 Pond street, has taken up the business of her deceased husband as a means of livelihood for herself and small children.

Mrs. Speakman is meeting trains at the P. R. R. station and operates her car until the 10 o'clock train arrives here. "Of course I'll drive later if I have the orders," she said today when discussing her new vocation.

In addition to driving the taxi as a means of livelihood Mrs. Speakman is endeavoring to keep house for her three small children and that it can be seen is no small task.

"I like the taxi business very much," she said today. "I find the people gentle and courteous and especially do I find the other taxi drivers very willing and anxious to aid me, whenever they can. If there are things which I do not know all that I have to do is ask the taxi drivers and they give me all of the aid and information they can. They have been very fine to me."

Freddie Speakman operated a taxi in Bristol for 16 years and died June 29th after a short illness with pneumonia. He had been prosperous in the taxi business and was buying his own home on Pond street. Mrs. Speakman was left without means of support and after thinking the matter over decided to continue the business of her husband and make a living for herself and her family of three children. She did not flinch but full of grit took up the work.

Mrs. Speakman had driven automobiles before but had never taken out a license. She applied herself to the task, passed the driver's test and now operates the taxi daily.

INDUSTRY IN VILLAGES

Industrial progress in the United States is facing a "new frontier." Its objective is not, as of old, the great centers of population but the small communities which have been liberated from their primitive handicaps by the widening of electric-power distribution and by the automobile.

Although the drift of population to the big city continues, it is no longer accompanied by a corresponding concentration of wealth and the productive capacity of large cities is not increasing in equal measure with that of smaller communities.

City development reaches a point of saturation when productive effort has to be wasted in investments the purpose of which is to keep people out of each other's way, in costly rapid transit and in lofty and costly buildings.

The small town has a long road to travel before reaching a saturation point in population and industrial growth. Moreover, it has been quick to grasp the new opportunities offered it by electric power expansion and the greater flexibility of transportation facilities.

Small cities and towns can look forward to further industrial growth through the inability of the big cities to absorb more factories and workers. They are not to become "deserted villages" through a drift to metropolitan centers.

TO COUNT THE JOBLESS

Secretary of Commerce Lamont's action in appointing a representative committee of citizens to cooperate in enumerating the unemployed in connection with next year's regular census of the population was the most practical step taken toward the solution of a great national problem.

Officials of the departments of commerce and labor have already met with representatives of employers and employees, economic and sociological experts and others directly interested in this subject.

It was shown a year ago that full and accurate data regarding unemployment is a prerequisite of finding permanent relief for the out-of-work. When the senate called upon Secretary of Labor Davis for information on the subject the latter had to confess that it was not available in accurate form.

When the number of unemployed and the causes and periods of unemployment become known quantities the government and other agencies will be in a position to take remedial steps. Until then they can only guess and experiment. For until we know the extent and kinds of unemployment, including the temporary, permanent, voluntary and involuntary, and their relation to the main problem, the proper remedies cannot be effectively applied.

The ideal way of getting along will never be realized by the idler.

The least that is said about some things the better, yet there are persons who keep on talking about them.

Applause and applesauce look a great deal alike in print and not infrequently the similarity goes beyond that.

It is claimed that there has been a marked decline in the writing of love letters. Folks are growing more cautious.

ON WITH THE SHOW

By ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1929, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"ON WITH THE SHOW," is the first 100% natural color, Vitaphone picture. It is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

Willie Durant is financing Nita French, an actress, in a musical show, but suddenly refuses to put up more money. Jerry Connolly, the manager, accuses Durant of being an unsuccessful attention to Kitty, the stage-struck check room girl, and inveigling her father, had alone, and her sweetheart, Jimmy, to invest their life savings to gain a hold over her. They quarrel and Jerry takes a gun from Durant. The box-office is robbed. Joe, the detective, suspects Jimmy. Durant is annoyed by Jimmy and Jimmy hits him. Kitty explains that she was trying to save Jimmy by being nice to the backer, but Jimmy refuses to believe her.

CHAPTER X—Continued

"You stay here," she warned, frightened now lest Durant should tell the detective of his suspicion concerning the boy's part in the box-office robbery. Little knowing that Joe had already questioned him.

But Jimmy's face was fully roused. "I'll bust his dirty neck for him! I'll kick him—!" He tried to pull away from Kitty but the girl clung tenaciously.

"Please, Jimmy, you don't know what you're doing," she argued. Their faces were very close together and Jimmy began to yield to the girl's persuasions, conscious of her nearness. Suddenly he drew back, sniffing suspiciously.

Jimmy Suspected the Worst

"Well, I'll be—Kitty!" he gasped. "Your breath! You've been drinking!"

"Now, calm down, I haven't been doing anything," Kitty tried to soothe him. "Nothing's happened." "You've been—" The boy's voice faltered as though he resented having to speak the word in connection with the girl he loved. "You've had a drink with that flat tire," he began again. "Oh, no! Nothing's wrong—nothing's happened!" His tone held bitterness and heart-break.

Kitty reached her arm about his neck, trying to embrace him, but he pushed her away. To think that Kitty should play such a part. To think that she would fall for such a mug as Durant. If he couldn't believe it, and yet he had seen her with the man and certainly in a compromising position. And her breath was noticeably strong with the odor of St. Ch.

"Please, Jimmy," Kitty was begging, tears in her eyes. "Let me explain. He and I was just—"

"Just in here alone with the door closed—waitin' for a street car," Jimmy's words might have sounded light and joking, but there was a real sorrow and depth of misery behind them, and Kitty realized it. He turned away and started to leave the room.

She ran after him. "Oh, Jimmy, please," she called, again catching his arm and trying to turn him around. She guessed what he must be thinking, but so far as she knew he didn't realize the true situation. He didn't know that he was being accused of the theft and that she had been trying to save him. It was a hard matter to explain, and it would be even harder to convince Jimmy of the exact nature of the matter.

From the stage came the sound of music as Jimmy tried to shake off Kitty and make his way across behind the back drop. But Kitty heard nothing. She was growing almost frantic in her desire to make the boy understand what had happened.

"I tell you, Jimmy everything's all right. You must listen to me. I had to do what I did, but please believe me, I wasn't allowing Durant to kiss me. I swear I wasn't, Jimmy. He tried to chase me around the room and I even threw a vase at him."

"Well, you must of led him on if he got close enough to grab you the way I saw him grabbing," Jimmy asserted coldly.

"You did, too," Jimmy retorted. "You aint got no real faith in me." "Well, if that's the way you feel about it," Kitty turned away, trying to hide the tears that would spring into her eyes.

"Well, what if I do?" Jimmy was no longer angry. Instead, he was growing sullen because he was beginning to see where he was in the wrong and he didn't want to admit it. He realized now that Kitty had been trying to help him; that she had discovered in some way that he was being accused of the theft.

They stood glaring at each other, Jimmy full of resentment and chagrin, Kitty trying her best to keep from sobbing aloud.

"You aint got no real faith in me," Jimmy said again. "You aint got no real faith in me," Kitty turned away, trying to hide the tears that would spring into her eyes.

MERCHANTS FORM POOL FOR MASS BUYING

Chain-store methods that preserve the individual neighborhood touch; lower prices and better service; greater variety plus the neighborliness of the individual stores, these are the promises held forth for the housewives of Bristol and vicinity by the United Retail Service Grocers, which have just formed a pool of 11 stores in this section.

The object of this pool is to achieve mass-buying in the open market, to the end that lower prices may be obtained and passed on to the consumers. The stores are located in every section of Bristol and nearby towns.

The new move is a tribute to the effectiveness of mass buying methods. The retail grocers joining this pool are of the opinion that, with mass-buying, they can outbid others in offering new inducements to the public.

The United Retail Service Grocers is a nation-wide organization of retail grocers and boasts 200 members in New Jersey. The members of the new organization, here, are:

Civic Progress Indicated By Home Modernizing Movement

MODERNIZATION MAKES FOR A MUCH MORE PROGRESSIVE CITY

Better Homes and Better Community Result

According to civic leaders the cities that are behind the Home Modernizing Movement are those that will progress. A study of home modernizing over a wide range of towns indicates that when the idea of improving the homes within and without begins to become general, the community starts along the road to progress.

The reasons for this are evident. Modernizing the home improves property values. The home that is modernized not only gains an increased value, but this value is reflected upon the other homes in the neighborhood.

Two or three modernized homes in a run-down community have been known to strike a new spirit that spreads like an epidemic.

Appearance Indicates Community Spirit

The community that is known to have a large number of modern appearing homes carries a reputation for being progressive. The very appearance of the residences indicates that the property owners are up-to-date and abreast of the times.

Strangers in the community are forced to judge by what they see. Their comments on the town are largely based on what they have observed. When that comment is favorable, nine times out of ten their reaction is caused by the view of streets and avenues lined by attractive homes of recent design.

Spice and span homes surrounded by beautiful lawns and shrubbery speak of prosperity and worth. They indicate to the casual visitor that the city is progressive and hustling. Beautiful residential streets are a mark of prosperity and progress.

Modernization Brings Progress

Real estate experts who have studied the relation of business prosperity to the activity in home building and modernizing affirm that invariably the town where modernizing is in progress actually is a live, bustling business center. Modernization and progress go hand in hand, according to these students of business.

Modernization stimulates trade, for the activities of modernizing a home are widespread. The building trades apparently benefit first for many persons think of remodeling as the main function of modernization. An investigation reveals that a diverse number of types of business also benefit. The department store supplies rugs, curtains, draperies, and new bed coverings as well as many other household appliances and needs. The furniture store receives calls for new tables, chairs, wicker porch furniture and the like. The real estate and insurance agency writes new policies covering fire and life risks. The bank finances the improvements with loans on first mortgages.

Modernization brings new demands to the family and aids in raising the standard of living in many homes.

All these things work to the good of the community. The benefits are received by the home-owner himself and by his neighbors, directly or indirectly.

BREAKFAST NOOK FOR HASTY MEALS

The formality of setting the dining table for a hasty breakfast is avoided when the house is equipped with a breakfast nook. Today many homes are being remodeled to include these handy eating places.

The breakfast nook may be a distinct alcove off the kitchen or simply a built-in affair in one corner of the room. Some breakfast nooks are designed to be folded up and hidden in a recess in the wall. Others are stationary. Many house-wives prefer to have the seats built-in, but the table so constructed that it can be moved for cleaning the corner and for other kitchen purposes. The seats may be of the box type so that they can be made to serve as storage places.

PAINTED FURNITURE SMART; ECONOMICAL

Painted furniture is in vogue now, and the housewife who yearns for a bedroom suite in her favorite color is able to gratify her taste inexpensively by the simple matter of purchasing the needed can of paint and brush.

Paint and varnish dealers are experienced in this work and will gladly advise the brands of material to use. They can give pointers, too, on the best way to do the job.

Good Ventilation Needed

When remodeling the kitchen make certain that ventilation is provided. The process of cooking makes the kitchen hot and uncomfortable. Fresh air must be provided. Ventilating fans are now used in many homes to draw out the heated air. A ventilating flue leading from the gas stove will draw off many kitchen odors.

Every Housewife Will Admire This Neat Kitchen

The old and the new in kitchens is illustrated on this page. Above is a modern kitchen, spice and span, with many of the latest devices that aid the housewife in her work. Below the old fashioned kitchen, a regular inferno in summer.

Special Glass Admits Ultra-Violet Rays

The rays of light that come through the window of your home do not contain the health-giving ultra-violet rays, for the ordinary pane of glass in the window bars its progress.

You can turn your living room or sun parlor into a real health resort by glazing your windows with a new special type of glass that permits the introduction of the ultra violet ray.

As the average man knows, light is composed of waves. White light, sunlight, is a mixture of waves of all lengths. If you pass a beam of light through a prism, the prism will separate the waves of light and show a spectrum or bar of colors. At one end of the bar is the violet ray, made up of short waves. Then come blue, green, yellow, orange and red, each with a longer and longer wave length. Beyond red is infra-red, made up of wave lengths so long that the human eye cannot perceive them. Beyond the violet at the other end of the light bar is ultra-violet, too short to be visible to the human eye.

Doctors tell us to get out in the sunshine, but often this is not possible. Many of us resort to a sunbath in our home. But a sun bath in a room containing windows of common glass is useless as we see. To be beneficial the glass must pass the ultra-violet rays.

MAKE THE KITCHEN MORE CONVENIENT

The illustrations on this page vividly present the before and after in kitchen arrangement. It's an object lesson of what is possible in modernization.

The old fashioned kitchen at the bottom is typical of days gone by, yet it must be admitted that many of these home-made ovens still remain to slowly bake the housewife on sultry summer days.

At the top the modern idea in kitchens is presented. Note the gas stove, the handy cupboards and the convenient sink. This workshop of the home is a delight to the housewife that owns it.

Kitchen Most Important Room

When modernizing your house do not overlook the kitchen. It is one of the most important rooms of the dwelling, for here the housewife spends many busy hours each day. It is only fair that this room shall receive the attention that its importance demands.

Kitchens should be planned to aid in saving steps. They should not be too large for oversized kitchens add more steps to the daily miles that are usually traveled in preparing three meals a day.

The relation of the stove, sink, table and refrigerator should be considered also with labor saving in mind.

Many modern homes have eliminated the pantry in favor of cupboards which line the walls. Here are placed the pots and pans, dishes and foodstuffs. Plenty of cupboard room is always desirable.

FORCED TO QUIT WORK, THEN NEW KONJOLA SCORED

Woman Tells of Happy Experience She Had With Modern Compound

MISS ELIZABETH BOSCO

"My general condition was so bad that I had to give up my work," said Miss Elizabeth Bosco, 1986 Water Street, Meadville, Pa. "My stomach had been in a very poor condition. Intense pains followed every meal. Nothing agreed with me. My food would not digest. Then too, my kidneys were in a disordered condition, and I had to get up frequently at night. 'Konjola' accomplished wonders! All the old troubles have disappeared. My stomach is back to a normal, healthy condition. My food digests as it should, and nourishes me. My kidneys never cause me the least bit of trouble, and the necessity for night rising is gone. I am back on the job, feeling like a different woman." Konjola is sold in Bristol, Pa., at Hoffman's Cut Rate store and by all the best druggists in all the towns throughout this entire section. (Adv.)

GRAND

for tomorrow only, the management announces.

Adapted for the screen from "The Haunted Lady," a magazine story by Adela Rogers St. Johns, "Scandal" is said to be one of the most unusual dramas of society filmed in many seasons. As a story it was widely commented upon, and as a picture it has attained a popular success.

The love of a former suitor for a happily married woman, at the pinnacle of Santa Barbara's exclusive social circles, causes the plot situation. The suitor makes a clandestine call upon her, only to learn later that this visit is his only alibi when he is accused of a murder that occurred while he was there.

COMMUNICATION

Editor, Courier:

It certainly is not to be expected that the Township Officers of Bensalem would encourage, or help in any way a part of Bensalem inhabitants to separate from the Township to become independent, and to retain quite a considerable sum of tax money that is to be spent only in Andalusia, this of course, would reduce Bensalem Township of just so much revenue for general distribution.

It seems there are some in Andalusia that feel it more blessed to give than receive although better business dictates that charity begins at home.

We all should know that it is natural to progress, as all past, present and future should do, if we hesitate and ponder it is then we lose opportunity for improvement.

The most and best can be accomplished only by local organization for home interests, so let's get on the job early. Why waste precious time and deny ourselves? We should be promoting Andalusia by following the lines of self government which has been worked out, tried out and approved by many trustworthy progressive law-abiding and successful people.

Andalusians certainly would like the advantages that are possible from the same tax rate that is now paid if used exclusively for our own town.

There surely should be no objections from any Andalusian regarding the tax money collected being spent where he resides and for his convenience.

Taxes could be less if nothing more than the existing poor conditions are desired, but so much could be done, if and when requested by a majority of the resident voters through representation by officers elected by them to act in accordance to their wishes, thus in a short time many new cameras would be added to the community of satisfied owners having a respectful interest, the day of Farm rule being passed.

Those of us desiring circumstances most satisfactory because of best representation please drop a line to Mr. Hibbs Buckman, attorney, Doylestown, who is working for the majority of resident owners for the fulfillment of their petition. Express to him your desire and hope for a borough in your own home town of Andalusia.

CHARLES A. DUNK.

SUPREME MOTOR OIL

AUTOMOTIVE Engineers agree that the properly blended two-base oil is the best for the modern automobile motor.

We are taking the best properties of the paraffine and naphthene base crudes and blending them into an ideal automobile lubricant—eliminating many of the objectionable features of single base oil made from either crude.

Reducing Carbon Deposits
Minimizing Crankcase Dilution
Increasing Heat Resistance
